Nimbus acquires a stake in Dutch Sprouts

M&A Advisory

- On March 31, 2016 Nimbus Investments participated in Dutch Sprouts, a Wageningen based company that develops several affordable measurement methods that generate farmer growth
- The funding will be used to further rollout its two main products, a revolutionary hand held and a mobile laboratory, and further develop the soil database for new areas
- Both products test soil instantly by using mid or near infra red (MID/NIR), match the results with the wet chemical tested soil database and this results in an direct advice on the smartphone of the farmer. Easy to use and avoiding expensive testing
- JBR acted as M&A advisor to Dutch Sprouts

Dutch Sprouts ready for market launch

Dutch Sprouts will team up with investor Nimbus as of April 1st, 2016. Dutch Sprouts aims to support farmers worldwide to increase their yields by providing them with intuitive, smart and affordable solutions in order to monitor crop and soil quality. Dutch Sprouts combines various sensors and complex databases in its products, enabling farmers to increase their yields up to 50% per hectare.

Dutch Sprouts' subsidiary SoilCares is about to launch a revolutionary scanner, a handheld device that processes on-the-spot soil tests in order to receive adequate lime and fertiliser recommendations within 30 seconds on a smartphone. SoilCares will launch the scanner starting this summer.

The partnership with Nimbus enables Dutch Sprouts to accelerate the rollout of this new product and to further internationalise the company. The investment of Nimbus shows a great confidence in the technology as well as the people within Dutch Sprouts. Nimbus' expertise in supporting companies into the next phase of growth makes Nimbus the perfect partner for Dutch Sprouts.
